Do You Want The Full Home Cinema Experience?

Wouldn't it be wonderful if you could have a real cinema in your own home without having to spend time and effort, not to mention the sheer hassle, of choosing between hundreds of systems, planning alterations, hiring builders and lots more?

Well, now you can!

We are GCC, the UK's leading garage conversion company, and we understand your home life is precious and that your home and family are the centre of your world.

That's why we've developed special garage/home cinema packages that take all that hassle away. We take care of all the planning, building works, insulation and soundproofing as well as providing you with a breathtaking home cinema experience. Spend more family time together, in superb surroundings, whilst enjoying full high definition films or sport.

Most homes don't have an appropriate spare room, or sufficient unused space within the main living area, limiting the scope for installing a Home Cinema, but your garage (Single or double) is the perfect space, and when converted, will both enhance your enjoyment of your home and add value to your property.

"We think every home deserves that special 'WOW' factor, so we've also come up with a series of upgrade options that can be added as and when your budget allows."

Home Cinema Options

Naturally, all of our home cinema conversions include the latest, high definition entertainment equipment. However we also offer you the opportunity to personalise and further enhance your brand new living space. Detailed in this brochure is our range of cinema packages, together with a number of carefully selected options.

Your Questions answered

How long will the garage conversion take?	On average, conversions take between 7-10 days for a single garage and 10-15 for a double garage.
What guarantee do I get around the building works?	10 year as a matter of course but we include a 6 month pre-emptive snagging visit on a date agreed with you, where we will return to repair any cracks or defects that have occurred with your conversion.
How much does it cost?	After our surveyor's visit, we will contact you within 24 hours to let you know what the cost will be (there are several variables that drive the price). We may have a system installed nearby so please ask for a demonstration. Alternatively if you would like to meet a member of the GCC team to discuss your options, please call us on the number below.
How do I get my 10% discount from Homebase?	As soon as you sign up for a Home Cinema conversion, you will be presented with a specially coded pamphlet which you simply present when you go to Homebase.
What about satellite or Freeview channels?	You still need to arrange your satellite provision with your normal satellite provider. Connection points for your satellite receiver are provided (and marked for your satellite installer) to accept signals from the satellite dish. Instructions are left in your handover folder to assist your satellite installer.
TV and DAB aerial installation?	All your aerial installer needs to do is to connect to the TV connection point provided.
How will I know how my system works?	Whilst we install most of your system during the build stages of the conversion, the final commissioning of equipment is not done until the last stages of the project. We will then give you a full demonstration of the system and ask you to sign a hand over certificate to confirm you are happy with your installation.
How long is my system guaranteed for?	Your system is guaranteed for 12 months from date of installation. There will be an installation label, showing the date your system warranty starts. Hardware warranty registration is also essential.
Getting to know your system	As well as a full demonstration, all the necessary user guides will be left in a GCC handover folder which will be given to you at the end of the project. It is vital that you familiarise yourself with these and record the serial numbers of any hardware such as televisions, DVD players and CD players.
What next?	Just call us and we will take the pain away for everything associated with the installation of your fabulous new home cinema.
